

virtues have been brought under our immediate notice; the innumerable and extraordinary testimonies of his excellence we know are really true. Such men as Judge Burke, Mr. D. Rev. G. W. M. Malesy and others, are no flatterers, but eminent and distinguished citizens, whose recommendations cannot but inspire confidence, and whose popularity and dignity to this, which a preparation can seldom hope to obtain, were it not so, our own personal experience would be sufficient to convince us of the truth of it. We are, with certainty, that we can rely on the entire confidence and pleasure of the public in whatever part of the globe Cold, Cough, or that horrible scourge of humanity, Consumption exists. We for five years have seen it treated under different circumstances, in the most favorable and unfavorable cases, critically and almost hopelessly, from simple bronchitis to despondency, and can say that we know no instance where it has been found wanting, and our opinion can be endorsed by hundreds of our most refined and estimable fellow citizens, that whatever may have been the disease, the high position and extraordinary popularity of a specific remedy is not, in this instance, undeserved.

SOUTHERN CONVENTION. RESOLUTIONS UNANIMOUSLY PASSED.

1. Resolved, That the territories of the United States belong to the people of the several States of this Union as their common property. That the citizens of the several States of this Union have equal rights to migrate with their property to these territories, and are equally entitled to the protection of the federal government in the enjoyment of that property so long as the territories remain under the charge of that government.

2. Resolved, That Congress has no power to exclude from the territory of the United States any property lawfully held in the States of the Union and any act which may be passed by Congress to effect this is a plain violation of the Constitution of the United States.

3. Resolved, That it is the duty of Congress to provide proper governments for the territories, since the spirit of American institutions forbids the maintenance of military governments in time of peace, and laws heretofore existing in territories belonging to foreign powers which interfere with full enjoyment of religion—the freedom of the press—the trial by jury and all other rights of persons and property secured or recognized in the Constitution of the United States are necessarily and so soon as such territories become American territories, it is the duty of the federal government to make early provision for the enactment of those laws which may be expedient and necessary to secure the inhabitants of, and emigrants to, such territories the full benefit of the constitutional rights we assert.

4. Resolved, That to protect property residing in the several States of the Union the people of these States invested the federal government with the powers of war and negotiation and of sustaining armies and navies, and prohibited to State authorities the exercise of the same powers. They made no discrimination in the protection afforded or the description of property to be defended, nor was it allowed to the federal government to determine what should be held as property. Whatever the States deal with as property the federal government is bound to recognize and defend as such. Therefore it is the sense of this Convention that all acts of the federal government which tend to denationalize property of any description recognized in the Constitution and laws of the States, that discriminate in the degree and efficiency of the protection to be afforded to it which weaken or destroy the title of any citizen upon American territories, are plain and palpable violations of the fundamental law under which it exists.

5. Resolved, That the slaveholding States cannot and will not submit to the enactment by Congress of any law imposing onerous conditions or restraints upon the rights of the masters to remove with their property into the territories of the United States, or to any law making distinctions in favor of the proprietors of other property against them.

6. Resolved, That it is the duty of the federal government plainly to recognize and only to maintain the equal rights of the citizens of the several States in the territories of the United States, and to repudiate the power to make a discrimination between the proprietors of different species of property in federal legislation. The fulfillment of this duty by the federal government, would greatly tend to restore the peace of the country and to allay the excitement which now exist between the different sections of the Union. For it is the deliberate opinion of the Convention that the tolerance Congress has given to a notion that federal authority might be employed incidentally and indirectly to subvert or weaken the institutions existing in the States, confessedly beyond federal jurisdiction and control, is a main cause of the discord which menaces the existence of the Union, and which has well nigh destroyed the efficient action of the federal government itself.

7. Resolved, That the performance of this duty is required by the fundamental law of the Union. The equality of the several States composing the Union cannot be disturbed without disturbing the frame of the American institutions. This principle is violated in the denial of the citizens of the slaveholding States of power to enter into the territories with the property lawfully acquired in the States. The warfare against this right, is a war upon the constitution. The defenders of this right, are defenders of the constitution. Those who deny or impair its exercise, are unfaithful to the constitution, and if disunion follows the distinction of the right they are the disunionists.

8. Resolved, That the performance of its duties upon the principle we declare, would enable Congress to remove the embarrassments in which the country is now involved. The vacant territories of the United States, no longer regarded as a prize for sectional rapacity and ambition, drawn by gradually occupied by inhabitants would to them by their interest and feelings. The institutions fitted to them would be naturally applied by governments formed on American ideas and approved by the deliberate choice of their constituents. The community would be educated and disciplined under a republican administration in habits of self government, and fitted for association as a State, and to the enjoyment of a place in the confederacy. A community so formed and organized, might well claim admission to the Union, and none would dispute the validity of the claim.

9. Resolved, That a recognition of this principle would deprive the questions between Texas and the United States of their sectional character, and would leave them for adjustment without disturbance from sectional prejudices and passions, upon considerations of magnanimity and justice.

10. Resolved, That a recognition of this principle would infuse a spirit of conciliation in the discussion and adjustment of all the subjects of sectional dispute, which would afford a guarantee of an early and satisfactory determination.

11. Resolved, That in the event a dominant majority shall refuse to recognize the great constitutional rights we assert, and shall continue to deny the obligations of the federal Government to maintain them, it is the sense of this convention that the territories should be treated as property and divided between the sections of the Union, so that the rights of both sections be adequately secured in their respective shares. That we are aware this course is open to grave objections, but we are ready to acquiesce in the adoption of the line of 30 deg. 30 min. north latitude, extending to the Pacific ocean, as an extreme concession, upon considerations of what is due to the stability of our institutions.

12. Resolved, That it is an opinion of this convention that this controversy should be ended, either by a recognition of the constitutional rights of the southern people or by an equitable partition of the territories. That spectacle of a confederacy of States involved in quarrel over the fruits of a war in which the American arms were crowned with glory, is humiliating. That the incorporation of the Wilcox proviso in the offer of settlement, a proposition which fourteen States regard as disparaging and dishonorable, is degrading to the country. A termination to this controversy by the disruption of the confederacy, or by the abandonment of the territories to prevent such a result, would be a climax to the shame which attaches to this controversy which it is the paramount duty of Congress to avoid.

13. Resolved, That this convention will not conclude that Congress will adjourn without making an adjustment of this controversy and in the condition in which the convention finds the questions before Congress, it does not feel at liberty to discuss the methods suitable for a resistance to measures not yet adopted, which might involve a dishonor to the southern States.

OBITUARY.
DIED at his residence in Canton Miss. on Saturday morning 16th inst. at half past 2 o'clock, after a painful illness of several months, Doctor Henry Field, in the 30th year of his age. Dr. Field was a native of Dinwiddie county Va., and received his education mainly at West Point New York. In his youth he spent some time in the study of medicine, but after being married, he abandoned the idea of practicing physic, and engaged in other pursuits. Some five years ago, not having lost his taste for the profession which he had chosen in his younger days, he devoted himself anew to its study, and after having attended a course of lectures in Philadelphia, and one in New Orleans, received a diploma from the school as the latter place, and settled in Canton where he lived up to the time of his death.

The stand which he at once took, amongst men of his own profession, the success with which he practised and the confidence with which he inspired the community, all attest the justice of his claims to the character of an educated, scientific and skillful physician.

But Dr. Field was not only valued as a physician; his manly virtues, his social qualities, his unblemished moral character, his liberal and enlightened views upon every subject, rendered him a most valuable element of society. In principle he was stern and uncompromising, and never learned "to bend the pregnant hinges of the knee, that thrift might follow fawning."

As a friend, he was generous, confiding, and true: As a citizen he was public spirited, liberal, and utterly devoid of that icy selfishness, which sometimes characterizes the motives and conduct of men. As a husband and father, no man ever derived more of happiness from these social ties and endearments than he did, or was more successful in imparting it to the loved ones around him.

Home and family were the beacon lights of his earthly existence. As a christian, he lived above reproach, and when the hour of his departure came, he could say with one of old, "to live is godliness, but to die is great gain." Although he suffered much and long, no word of complaint was heard to escape his lips—but when told that the messenger of death was at hand, he expressed himself ready to obey the summons; and after taking an affectionate leave, of his weeping friends, with a promise from each to meet him in a better land, his spirit passed away as calmly and gently as sits the sun in a summer evening. And though many a heart is filled with sadness on account of his absence, yet we mourn not as those that are without hope.

"Oh! who would bear life's stormy doom,
Did not thy wing of love
Come brightly winging through the gloom,
Our peace branch from above!
Here sorrow, touch'd by Thee, grows bright,
With more than nature's ray;
As darkness shows us worlds of light
We never saw by day!" S.

MADISON FOUNDRY,
Sharon, Miss.
CONSTANTLY on hand, Ploughs, Gin Segments and mill Castings. Castings of any kind made to order. All work warranted in material and execution.

Gin Segments.—These are made on approved, scientific principles—so constructed and working together as to avoid nearly all friction, so that with the same power, one half more work can be done, than with the ordinary Gin gearing.

From many testimonials of the superiority of these Segments we insert the following:
Leake County, Miss., March, 1850.
For the last six months I have been using Segments made at the Madison Foundry, and find them superior to any horse power gearing I have ever seen.

J. H. McGAUGHY.
Stump Bridge, Madison County.

I have been engaged many years in plying an machinery, both at Northern and Southern Foundries; but recently, in view of motion, and absence of friction, I have found none equal to the Segments made at the Madison Foundry.

JOSEPH BARNES.
Sengy Ash, Attala County, 1850.

The Gin Segments made at the Madison Foundry for purposes, my expectations. They require less time than any I have ever seen. I gin with one horse, on a 41 saw gin, three bales a day.

SOUTHERN LITERATURE
THE undersigned respectfully invite the attention of the public to the following list of periodical publications, now issued from their press in Charleston:

1. The Southern Quarterly Review, edited by Wm. G. Simms, Esq. new series, commencing with April 1850, price $5 per annum.

2. The Southern Literary Gazette, a large and elegant Family Journal, published every Saturday, and containing a larger amount of original matter than any other paper in the country, edited by Wm. C. Richards, assisted by D. H. Jacques, price $2 per annum, if paid in advance. A new volume commences on the 4th of May, 1850.

3. The Southern Electric Magazine, a monthly miscellany of choice literature, selected from the Gazette and other sources, published in numbers of 32 royal octavo pages, on the paper and with new type, each number embellished with a Southern Portrait, or Landscape, finely engraved on wood, price $1 a year, but to subscribers for the Gazette only 50 cents.

4. The Schoolfellow, a magazine for boys and girls, published on the 15th of each month, in numbers of 32 pages, filled with choice original articles from some of the best writers in the country, edited by Mr. W. C. Richards, each number contains ten or twelve fine wood engravings, price, one dollar per annum. The same work for 1849 in an elegantly bound volume, one dollar to subscribers. This work is universally pronounced by the press, North and South, the best Juvenile Magazine in the country.

The subscribers publish all the above works in the best style of typography, and on fine paper. They also pledge themselves for prompt issue and faithful delivery to subscribers, and they solicit for them the generous support of the friends of a home literature.

Editors, who will give this card two or three insertions with notice, shall be entitled to all the works except the Southern Quarterly. Address, if by mail, post paid.

THE ARTESIAN SPRINGS.
THESE Springs situated in Madison county, 22 miles North east of Canton, will be open for the reception of visitors on the 15th May next, Gen. T. C. McMackin, well known to the traveling and reading public as the best landlord of the South, will have the superintendence and management under his entire control. This is a sufficient guarantee for the comfort of the visitors. We have erected and in the course of erection buildings sufficiently spacious to accommodate 500 persons in all comfort, and also a number of double cottages which will be rented to families by the month or season. There will also be a large Ball Room and band of music, Tenpin Alley and Billiard Tables, for amusement and exercise, and a Bar room well furnished with the choicest "creature comforts."

We have made arrangements with Mr. Ledbetter, the enterprising contractor of the Yazoo City, Lexington and Benton Stage line, who will promptly convey all passengers from those points to the Springs.

Passengers by way of Canton, will be immediately conveyed to the Springs by Mr. Jesse P. Brown, in Coach and Hack with speed and perfect safety.

These Springs are situated on the Ridge which lies between Big Black and Pearl, in a high rolling country and on the immediate border of the pine region, and the proprietors feel fully justified from their own observation, from the estimation of that portion of the public to whom the beneficial effects of their waters are known, and from the concurrent testimony of many intelligent gentlemen of the medical profession under whose recommendation and observation they have been used, in recommending them, in all cases in which tonics are indicated, but especially in all cases connected with a debilitated condition of the digestive organs, in diseases of the mucous tissues, embracing Dysentery, Diarrhea, and especially summer diseases of children; in chronic inflammation of the bladder, in most diseases of the kidneys, especially those attended with alkaline deposits, in torpor of the liver; as a local application in chronic inflammation of the eyes in diseases of the skin, both as a local and internal remedy; in diseases of the scalp and ulcers generally and all diseases of females, connected with debility.
